

SIGNATURE CAPTURE

FOR DOCUMENT MANAGEMENT

STORE AND RETRIEVE YOUR CRITICAL BUSINESS DATA

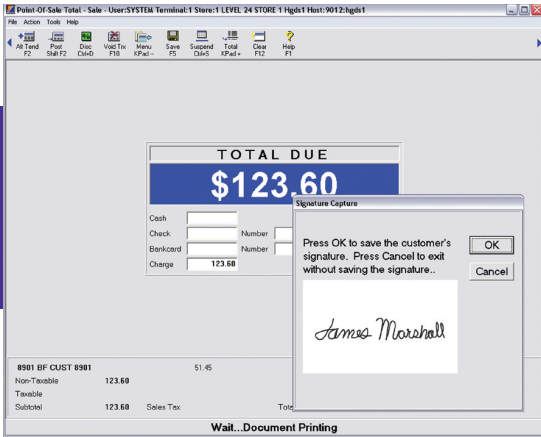

Think about your business today. Customers sign invoices and receipts, and the merchant copy lands in a drawer for filing. Later, back office staff collect and collate signed receipts and invoices and match them to statements for month-end processing. With manual procedures like these, too many things can go wrong. And how about that warehouse clogged with file cabinets storing old invoices? Or the immense amount of time it takes to sort, file and search for specific customer invoices? Activant Solutions Inc. has a solution called Signature Capture for Document Management to address these issues.* Once you realize how much time and space you save, you may wonder how you ever did without it.

With Signature Capture for Document Management, you can electronically store signed invoices and receipts associated with sales, credits and orders—or any transaction requiring signature authorization. The new procedure looks like this. A customer signs a receipt or invoice at your location using the Signature Capture terminal. The details of the transaction, including the image of the signature, are stored in your computer system, fulfilling your legal need for archiving and your business need to easily retrieve data. No hard copy to store. No searching. Just a simple way to store and retrieve critical data for your business.

Your back office staff will save time by quickly finding a copy of the invoice they're looking for, complete with the customer's signature, right on their computer screen. You'll also be able to print archived Accounts Receivable statements with captured signature images. Signature Capture for Document Management also prints your signed AR invoices already collated with their corresponding statements. This improves month-end efficiency, because your staff no longer has to collate and attach invoices to statements.
